(82) and Kelsey Johnson (83) sit in fifth and sixth place, respectively, while the Pierre tandem of Katie Bartlett (88) and Karissa Guthrie (89) are 12th and 13th.

"We thought that we had to try to stay within four or five strokes of Getz, but she's a heckuva player," Garrison said. "We still managed to scratch out a little bit of a lead.

"That's what we were hoping we could do."

Perhaps the one surprise among the leaders after Monday's action was Sioux Falls Lincoln's Abbie Grevlos. Coming out of the fourth group, she carded an 80 to climb to second place behind Getz.

"I think I threw a few shots away on the putting green, but other than that, I was hitting it really well and was pretty happy," said Grevlos, a junior.

"I'm happy with it, I guess I couldn't really ask for anything better."

Behind Getz and Grevlos were a pair of golfers at 81, with Watertown's Haliee Pieper and Yankton's Megan Mingo. From there, O'Gorman senior Jansa shot an 82 to stay within striking distance of first place.

Of course, for Jansa, the performance was a bit of a vindication — and a relief, she said — after what happened at last year's state tournament. Jansa had to disqualify herself a year ago after signing an incorrect scorecard, taking her out of the individual race.

"It was a little tense coming into it, because everyone knows what happened, but I just wanted to not have that happen again," she said. "I was having a few tough holes, and I thought about my team. I did what I could for them."

Jansa will begin today's (Tuesday) final round in the second group, while Getz will be the focal point of the lead group — with Grevlos, Pieper and Mingo.

Saying she doesn't feel much pressure heading into the final day, Getz instead smiled and shared a "mentality" that she's used all spring.

"Even if you've had success in the past, you just need to strive for more in the future," Getz said. "You should never settle."

Homecoming For Mitchell Coach Rob Marchand picked a good year to return to the coaching ranks.

A 1974 graduate of Yankton High School, the Mitchell coach is back this season leading the Kernels after previously coaching the program from 1985-90. He is also back to his familiar haunts — Hillcrest Golf & Country Club.

"It's always nice to come home. This is where I grew up, right here," he said Monday. "My father was a greenskeeper here for many years, so I worked on these grounds for a long time."

When he took over the Mitchell program again this year, Marchand said his mother and sister — who both live in Yankton — were excited to hear the State AA Girls' Golf Tournament would be held in Yankton.

"There's such a rich history here; it's a championship caliber course," he said. "For my girls to get the chance to play here, it's been fun."

Marchand's initial return to Hillcrest was supposed to be for the Yankton Invitational last month, but that was canceled because of snowy weather. Instead, he and his girls had to wait to make the trip.

Hillcrest, however, is in great shape, Marchand said.

"I feel bad for the maintenance staff, because I imagine it's been tough to get out and do all the mowing they need to do," he said.

SB50 Site To Be Decided Today

BOSTON (AP) — Where the Super Bowl will celebrate a half-century of existence will be decided this week by NFL owners.

They have two choices for the 50th anniversary game in 2016: the San Francisco Bay Area and South Florida.

The 49ers' new stadium is being built and is scheduled to open for the 2014 season. With the NFL showing a penchant for bringing its championship game to new venues — Dallas and Indianapolis very recently, New Jersey next February — Santa Clara would appear to have a strong chance. Only once has the Bay Area staged a Super Bowl, in 1985 at Stanford Stadium.

"I think with the new stadium ... we can host a Super Bowl there," said Hall of Fame receiver Jerry Rice. "It's going to be awesome. So I realize there's a lot of history at Candlestick. To stay competitive in the NFL, this is something we have really needed for a long, long time, and I think it's going to be awesome."

Not so awesome for the Miami area was a defeat in the state Legislature earlier this month that could severely damage its hopes of being chosen as the 2016 host. Or, for that matter, for South Florida to beat Houston for the 2017 game should it lose to San Francisco for the 50th edition. Both sites will be decided Tuesday.

Jansa ranks fifth with an 82, and has the Knights leading the team standings by five strokes entering today's final round. O'Gorman has won the past three Class AA girls' championships.
