Ken Burns' Documentary 'The Roosevelts' To Open New PBS Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — PBS said Thursday its fall season will open with a binge-viewing opportunity: a seven-part Ken Burns documentary on the Roosevelt political dynasty.

"The Roosevelts: An Intimate History," will air as two-hour episodes over seven nights, beginning Sept. 14. Each episode will be repeated nightly and the show will be widely available for post-air online viewing, said Beth Hoppe, PBS chief programming executive.

"I think it's the best thing Ken's done since 'The Civil War," Hoppe said. "He thinks it might be the best thing he's ever done."

"The viewer experience is changing and we're trying to dish this up as an epic binge," Hoppe said of the series about U.S. presidents and cousins Theodore and Franklin D. Roosevelt and FDR's wife, Eleanor.

The Burns family itself will be well-represented on public TV's schedule, with brother Ric Burns' "The Pilgrims," airing Nov. 25, Thanksgiving week. The "American Experience" film will examine what compelled English men and women to voyage to a new land in 1620.

PBS, whose average household rating for the season to date puts it at No. 7 among all broadcast and cable channels, won't have drama ratings champ "Downton Abbey" back on until January. But there's a full slate of fall alternatives.

Among them is "Death Comes to Pemberley," based on novelist P.D. James' sequel to Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" and starring Matthew Rhys ("The Americans") and Anna Maxwell Martin. It airs Oct. 26 and Nov. 2.

Bill Nighy will return as British spy Johnny Worricker, seen in 2011's "Page Eight," in two new season on Sept. 26.

stories. He'll be joined by Christopher Walken, Winona Ryder, Helena Bonham Carter and Ralph Fiennes in the shows airing Nov. 9 and 16.

Arts programming will remain the focus of PBS' Friday night schedule, with two series, "Live from Lincoln Center" and "Austin City Limits," marking their 40th anniversaries.

A March performance by Emma Thompson and Bryn Terfel in "Sweeny Todd: The Demon Barber of Fleet Street," in concert with the New York Philharmonic, will open the "Lincoln Center" als, changing gears and clicking brake levers. He also employed things like a violin bow or a guitar pick to use on a spoke or a rotating tire. The intense process took seven months.

Baber said he developed approximately five ideas for a possible song while recording material for "Bespoken." In the end, he came up with what sounds like an electronic pop

"If there was a source of inspiration, it was probably Radiohead's 'Kid A,'" he stated, referring to the popular British rock/electronic band. "Even though my composition may have sounded electronic, it was 100 percent acoustic.

It's likely that bicycle sounds will be used in future compositions.

Out of thousands of sounds, only 50 ended up in 'Bespoken,' so there is enough material to create several albums of music," Baber said.
"I'd be surprised if I didn't come back to it at some point." He is currently recording the sounds of kitchen objects for a new composition. "The kitchen-based project is called 'Clarify' and should be released towards the end of the summer with a short film," Baber said.

"Bespoken" and future releases follow a theme of awareness of one's surroundings, he added. "It promotes tuning in rather than tuning out," Baber

People hoping to see and hear a live performance of "Bespoken" at the National Music Museum this weekend will have to curb their expecta-

"I did get a call from 'Amer-ica's Got Talent' a few weeks ago, inquiring if I could do a live performance," Baber said. "It is possible, but you'd need 50-plus bicycles, advanced robotics and some software development.

Î'd estimate it would cost $1.5 million to develop. Maybe it'll happen if there are some applied technology and bicycle music grants out there ..."

Baber does hope people loave his prospetations and/or leave his presentations and/or demos with a creative spark.

"I hope people expect the unexpected," he said. "My ulti-mate goal is to inspire."
