The Dallas Morning News reported nearby businesses, including a Wal-Mart and Sam's Club, were evacuated.
About 75 attendees were taken to another room. Later, a group of 48 people were escorted to a school bus. Authorities told attendees they would be taken to a nearby high school. A second group was set to be moved shortly after.

YANKTON COUNTY is seeking to start its own authority in order to facilitate a proposed rail-industrial park at Napa Junction.
One potential issue the county is seeking to address is the county's current status with another regional rail authority — Napa-Platte Regional Rail Authority.
Commissioner Deb Bodendstedt said during the April 7 meeting of the County Commission that Yankton County is not a part of the Napa-Platte authority.
"The current Napa-Platte Rail Authority includes only Bon Homme and Charles Mix (counties)," Bodendstedt said. "There is no record of Yankton County being part of the railroad authority, per the Secretary of State's office."
However, former commissioner and Napa-Platte board member Garry Moore told the Press & Dakotan that Yankton County joined the board in 2012.
"They still do have jurisdiction and authority from Platte to the Napa Junction," Moore said. "The issue, when I came on board in 2011, was, 'What happens here? We don't have any people on this Platte-Napa Regional Rail Authority. If something's going to happen in Yankton County, we ought to be able to be a part of it.' And that's when we joined the Platte-Napa Regional Rail Authority in 2012."
Currently, the authority is only listed as consisting of Charles Mix and Bon Homme counties. Bruce Lindholm of the South Dakota Department of Transportation also told the Press & Dakotan that Yankton County is not on record as being a part of any regional rail authorities.
The Platte-Napa authority was created in the early 1980s and originally consisted of Charles Mix and Bon Homme counties. Moore said Yankton initially turned down an offer to join.
Bergquist said regional rail authorities have proven to be effective tools for the state.
"Across the state — particularly on the state-owned line — they've been a very good tool to help the rail board expand and operate the state-owned rail line," he said. "They've been very effective in that regard and we'll be continuing to work with them, whoever the local authority may be on a particular segment of line."
The meeting is open to the public and will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of the Yankton County Government Center.
