Bon Homme Burn Ban Lifted

BY RANDY DOCKENDORF
randy.dockendorf@yankton.net

TYNDALL – Bon Homme County has lifted its burn ban, effective immediately.

Bon Homme County emergency manager Scott Burgi told the Press & Dakotan that the decision was made Thursday after dry conditions improved around the county.

Wednesday's precipitation eased conditions enough to lift the ban, Burgi said.

"The rainfall was pretty spotty," he said. "I received reports ranging from 1.75 inches (of precipitation) two miles west of Scotland to 1.25 inches at Springfield and everything in between."

The forecast calls for continued rainfall, possibly totaling significant amounts, through the weekend.

The burn ban may be lifted, but Burgi said residents still need to take precautions and observe other laws on the books when it comes to burning.

The Bon Homme County Commission has passed an ordinance requiring those under taking any type of large controlled burn must first contact the sheriff's office, Burgi said.

"Someone with a burn pit or garbage barrel doesn't need to call," he said. "But if you're doing any type of big fire, like CRP (acreage), you still need to call and let the dispatch (at the courthouse) know so that we don't send out fire departments."

The burn ban can be reinstated if conditions warrant, he said.

For more information, contact Burgi at (605) 589-4242.

Human Services Career Exploration Class Offered

"Exploring Careers in Health and Human Services" is the title of a summer class being offered for the fifth year in Yankton for high school students.

Participants will learn about mental health and human service careers through interaction with the local mental health system of service delivery. Students will participate in tours of human service provider agencies within the community. The class will include discussion with area professionals practicing in the diverse areas of mental health occupations and — NEW this year — students will participate in and receive Certification in Mental Health First Aid. Students will also attend the 18th annual YAMWI Conference to be held at Mount Marty College on June 3-4, which is recognized as the region's premier mental wellness conference.

Yankton Area Mental Wellness, Inc. (YAMWI), in cooperation with Southeast Job Link (SEJL), proudly announces that this high school class will be offered to promote Exploring Careers in Health and Human Services. Health care careers are some of the fastest growing occupations across the nation and the Yankton community is recognized as a regional leader in providing professional medical care. Successful completion of this class should support students' career decisions and their future pursuit of health and human service-related occupations.

"Exploring Careers in Health and Human Services" class dates are May 27-29 and June 1-5. The class will be based out of Southeast Job Link at 1200 West 21st Street, Yankton.

Yankton High School students successfully completing the class will be eligible for an elective half-credit, which has been approved with unanimous support by the Yankton School District Board. Students from other districts may also be eligible for credit, pending approval by their school; call Southeast Job Link for more information. In addition, this year the staff is able to offer college credit, for an additional cost, through Mount Marty College for Junior and Senior students. (For more information on college credit, contact Lori Lincoln by email at llincoln@mtmc.edu or by calling 605-668-1460).

Class size is limited. Pre-registration and pre-payment of the basic fee is required; scholarships may be available for students showing financial need.

For registration procedures and fee payment, contact Sheri Duke, Executive Director of Southeast Job Link at 605-668-3480 or email her at sduke@southeastjoblink.org.
