Judge: No Evidence Bluesman B.B. King Being Abused

BY KEN RITTER Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — A dispute over B.B. King's health and wealth was tossed out of court Thursday by a judge in Las Vegas who said two investigations found no evidence the blues legend was being abused.

The ruling in Clark County Family Court keeps the 89-year-old musician's longtime business manager, Laverne Toney, in legal control of his affairs.

Three of King's 11 surviving children — Karen Williams, Rita Washington and Patty King — said outside court they suspect Toney is stealing money and neglecting King's medical care while blocking them from seeing their father in home hospice care. They vowed to keep fighting.

We lost the battle, but we haven't lost the war," Williams

Toney and her attorney, Brent Bryson, denied the allegations, said visits can be scheduled as they've always been, and called the sisters' efforts a money grab.

"It's all about money," Bryson said. "Mr. King is no longer out able to tour at this particular time so there's no money coming in. The only way they can get money now is by filing a frivolous type of action.

King's lawyer, Arthur Williams Jr., and King's personal physician, Dr. Darin Brimhall, said outside court that they saw no neglect or abuse.

Clark County Family Court Hearing Master Jon Norheim said from the bench that police and social services investigations in October and April uncovered no reason to take power-of-attorney from Toney. The reports won't be made public, the judge said.

"There is no evidence of need for guardianship," Norheim said. "Mr. King has counsel. I don't have anything here that says he lacks capacity. He has some serious health issues. But ... if he feels like he's being taken advantage of, he has remedies.

Norheim said he can't consider daughter Karen Williams' petition to take over as King's guardian until every one of King's surviving children and dozens of grandchildren receives legal notice. Karen Williams and a would-be executor, Frederick Waid, sought to wrest powerof-attorney from Toney with an April 29 petition asserting that more than $5 million in assets was at stake.

Bryson said he couldn't comment on King's estate, which the document said would also include intellectual property rights and royalties. The petition alleges Toney blocked King's friends including musicians Willie Nelson, Buddy Guy, Carlos Santana and Eric Clapton from visiting him, and put her family members on King's payroll. It also alleges large sums of money disappeared from King's bank accounts.

"The family has been unable to account for what is reported to be in excess of $1 million," the court document

Bryson called the theft allegation "almost laughable." He said all of King's spending was legitimate and accounted for.

King was hospitalized a week ago, after police were called to his home in a dispute between Toney and Patty King about his condition. No arrests were made. The musician returned home Friday.

King, born Riley B. King in the Mississippi farm town of Itta Bena, toured and performed almost continually until October, when he canceled the remaining shows in his 2014 tour after falling ill in Chicago with dehydration and exhaustion.

Las Vegas police were called to King's home in November on allegations of elder neglect and abuse. Officer Jesse Roybal said this week that case remained open, and no details were available.

King is a Rock and Roll Hall of Famer and a 15-time Grammy winner. He has released more than 50 albums and sold millions of records worldwide. He is considered one of the greatest guitarists of all time.

p.m. in MMC in Bede Hall,

The choir is for children with unchanged voices in grades 3-8.

There are three things that we are going to ask those auditioning to do, Stoll said. "First, we will check on their range. They have to sing how high and low they can get.'

After that, those who audition will be asked to sing "Row Your Boat."

"We will then have you sing a round so we can see if you can hold your own while someone else is singing," she

Lastly, those auditioning will sing the first verse of "America (My Country 'Tis Of Thee)." Music will be provided.

"This is basically so we can see if they can hold a pitch," Stoll said. "If they start to sing a song in one key and then move back and forth to other keys — that's

According to Stoll, YCC hopes to grow to 60 members in the next year.

"The choir provides kids so many things," she said. "It shows them how to carry themselves, to have confidence. They also have to be a team player in a group.

They are singing as one, not as an individual.

The choir rehearses every Tuesday night from 6-7:30 p.m. from September through May.

"We have two of our own concerts that we sing every year and some we collaborate with MMC," Stoll said. "Last week, some of the kids were in 'Carmina Burana.' That was pretty epic. It was so cultured musically. It was a good experience for the kids to see because they were able to see a trained soprano and a trained tenor singing those parts. It was just inspiring. They just stood there with their mouths open in awe.'

Stoll said the best part about being the executive director of YCC is seeing kids improve throughout the year.

'There is such a difference in the voices," she said. "The performances improve from the first concert to the last one.'

Carlson said he is excited to contribute to YCC's repu-

"I think there is a lot of value in the arts," he said. "I think part of what the YCC can do is to continue to develop that."
