State Officials Warn of Potential Unscrupulous Contractors In Wake Of Delmont Tornado Disaster

PIERRE — Attorney General Marty Jackley and the South Dakota Department of Public Safety urge Delmont tornado victims to proceed with caution when moving into the recovery phase of this disaster.

Residents will understandably be eager to have new construction or the necessary work done to their damaged property. However, state and local officials are urging consumers to take the necessary steps to evaluate a bidder before contracting for a job. Consumers who need repair work done quickly following a natural disaster are often targets of unscrupulous business practices.

"While the vast number of contractors follow legitimate business practices, there are a handful that will seek to take an unfair advantage of this tragic situation," said Jackley. "Many victims are quite vulnerable in the recovery stage, and we encourage them to take time to evaluate and secure the right contractor to avoid becoming a victim of a scam."

"In these types of disasters, those impacted residents are dealing with many issues and trying to cope with repairing their homes," said Public Safety Secretary Trevor Jones. "We know these are momentous decisions. We urge them to take their time, do their research and hire a legitimate contractor."

Here are a few suggestions when choosing professional contractors:

Take the time to evaluate the bidder before contracting the job.

Homeowners should look for a reliable contractor with a proven track record who readily offers credentials.

Ask for references. Legitimate contractors should be more than willing to provide a list of satisfied customers to verify their work.

Ask for a written estimate and a written contract.

Ask for sales tax license.

Keep a copy of the final, signed contract. Read this contact carefully before signing. This contract will usually be binding once you have both agreed to it. The contract should state that any changes in the project should include a Change Order signed by both and put guarantees in writing. Any guarantees made by the contractor should be written into the contract.

Obtain a local building permit, if required.

Make final payments only after the work is completed. Do not sign completion papers or make the final payment until the work is completed to your satisfaction.

Pay by check. Avoid on-the-spot cash payments. The safest route is to write a check to the contracting company.

Avoid door-to-door contracting offers. Many transient contractors will not be available if problems occur months after the work has been completed.

Tornado victims are also encouraged to shop around for materials that might be used during this time of recovery. South Dakota does not have price gouging statutes to protect consumers. Consumers will have to use their own due diligence to research and compare pricing of building products. If you have questions regarding price gouging or transient contractors contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division at 1-800-300-1986 or at consum-erhelp@state.sd.us.

Stitching Quilts For Those In Need

Four Seasons Fabric/Bernina Sewing Center of Yankton is starting off the spring and summer sewing season by stitching quilts for those in need.

Since 1997, owners Jon and Misty Nockels have been supplying quilts (and miscellaneous sewing projects) for various raffles or fundraisers such as: to help adults or children who may be ill, people who have large medical expenses, or families who may have lost their home in a fire.

Plans for the upcoming quilts include keeping them locally in the community for needed use, with the exception of military members/soldiers stationed both within the US or abroad.

Four Seasons Fabric of Yankton would like to include any interested community members in helping stitch the quilts. Participants may be any age and of any skill level to help. There is no charge to participate and you will learn quilting/sewing skills. The first event for this cause will take place Saturday, May 16, from 1-3:30 p.m., with a second date to be held in June.

The event's goal is to bring all ages together to lend a hand making quilts for those in need. This May 16 quilt event begins a brand new season of kids' sewing classes (ages 3-teen), too.

For more information, to help, or for class details, visit Four Seasons Fabric, 909 Broadway, phone 665-3406 or email info@fourseasonsfabrics.com.
