CNA Institutes Offered In Yankton And Mitchell

High school students interested in a rewarding healthcare profession can enter the field in a short two weeks thanks to the Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) Institute — an Avera Caring With Collaboration Award winner - being held in Yankton, June 1-12 and Mitchell, July 13-24.

Space is limited to 10 participants at Mitchell and 10 in Yankton. Students will commute to the Institute site each day. The Institutes are open to high school students and recent high school graduates ages 16-19. Applications must be returned to Yankton Rural Area Health Education Center (AHEC) by May 28 for the Yankton Institute and June 22 for the Mitchell Institute. Applications are available at the Yankton Rural AHEC website www.yrahec.org. For more information, contact Yankton Rural AHEC at 605-655-1400. A fee covers instruction, book and certification testing.

The Institute is designed to offer CNA certification and a comprehensive look at healthcare professions. Students will invest time in the classroom, with hands-on labs, in clinical training, listening to guest speakers, and making site visits to various healthcare facilities in Yankton or Mitchell. This is a great opportunity for students to learn skills that they can put to work in their local or area communities. And, the experience many times leads to additional healthcare career goals.

CNAs work in nursing homes, hospitals, adult day centers, mental health centers, assisted living facilities and private homes. Wherever there is a need for personal care, CNAs perform the most basic needs of patients, young and old alike. The Institute is a great opportunity to enter the healthcare field in a short time. Many CNAs go on to pursue other professional health careers, such as radiology or laboratory technicians, licensed or registered nurses, medical assistants, physical therapists and doctors.

This is the seventh annual CNA Institute in Yankton. This marks the third annual Mitchell CNA Institute. In May, Wagner hosted its first CNA Institute. Yankton Rural AHEC works with local sponsors to make this training possible. Upon passing of the certification exam, participants are eligible to begin work as CNAs, who are in high demand. Contact Yankton Rural AHEC for details at 605-655-1400.
