McGovern Getting Tests Before Launching Tour

SIoux FALLS (AP) — Former Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern is at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota for what he says are routine medical tests in advance of a book-signing tour.

The 89-year-old former U.S. senator last month was treated at a South Dakota hospital for exhaustion following a lecture tour in Europe. He told KELO-TV (<http://bit.ly/v96ltd>) Monday that he has his strength back and will be at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for only two days.

"I don't think they're looking for anything in particular," he said. "They just want to make sure all eight cylinders are functioning and capable of a non-stop tour to promote a new book."

His latest book, "What it Means to be a Democrat," is scheduled to be released Thursday.

McGovern was a South Dakota congressman from 1957 to 1961 and a U.S. senator from 1963 to 1981. He ran for president against incumbent Richard Nixon in 1972 and lost in a historic landslide. The liberal McGovern won only one state, Massachusetts.

McGovern was hospitalized in Sioux Falls for about five days in October to be treated for fatigue after his overseas speaking tour.

"It was just too heavy, too many colleges in too short of time with too much travel going from one to the other," he said. "Then I flew to Miami and that's when I ran out of steam."

McGovern has lived in St. Augustine, Fla., since 2008. His daughter lives in Sioux Falls.

McGovern on Monday is to attend the annual political discussion McGovern Conference at Dakota Wesleyan University in Mitchell, where he keeps a home. He is to open the conference and do a book-signing.

Memorial To Fallen Rapid City Officers To Be Dedicated

RAPID CITY (AP) — A memorial honoring two Rapid City police officers killed in the line of duty will be dedicated this weekend.

The memorial was built at the site of the Aug. 2 shootout that wounded Officers J. Ryan McCandless, 28, Nick Armstrong, 27, and Tim Doyle, 39.

McCandless and Armstrong later died of their injuries, while Doyle recovered and returned to duty. The suspect in the shooting, Daniel Tiger, 22, was shot by officers and died the next day. Authorities say Tiger opened fire when the officers attempted a routine stop for a reported disturbance by a group of four people.

City Alderman John Roberts, a member of the six-person committee that worked on details of the monument being erected in the north Rapid City neighborhood, said it will help in the grieving process.

"We just can't forget them," he said of the officers. "They definitely made the ultimate sacrifice for the people of Rapid City, and they deserve to be remembered."

The privately funded 4-foot-high granite monument that is shaped roughly like an officer's badge cost about $10,000, according to the Rapid City Journal. The dedication ceremony is at 2 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of two streets outside New Beginnings Baptist Church. Roberts said he expects a large crowd.

Festival

Shakespeare lovers will want to take in all three nights, Allen said. "It's one play, and each night they are performing a section of it," she said.

Coyoteopoly, a USD-student-run non-profit corporation, strives to provide charitable work for the Vermillion area. Since its fall 2004 inception, Coyoteopoly has donated its net revenue of $120,078 directly to charities and organizations of local interest.

The Vermillion Rotary Club serves as a parent company for Coyoteopoly, which is why the festival announcement will be made at the Rotary meeting, Allen said.

The South Dakota Shakespeare Festival is a joint venture between Coyoteopoly and the USD College of Fine Arts, Allen said. All festival events will be free and open to the public, thanks to Coyoteopoly's efforts at securing sponsorships, she said.

Free festival tickets will be distributed to the sponsors, who in turn will provide the tickets to the public, Allen said. Most of the tickets will be found in Vermillion, but some will go to sponsors in area communities such as Yankton, she said.

The Shakespeare Festival isn't just for those familiar with the bard and his works, according to festival artistic director Chaya Gordon-Bland.

"The mission of the South Dakota Shakespeare Festival is to provide free, lively and accessible Shakespeare to the communities of South Dakota and the surrounding regions," she said.

"The South Dakota Shakespeare Festival would not be possible without the support of the community locally, regionally and nationwide."

Bland, along with technical director-production manager Scott Mollman, are the two main USD theater representatives on the project and are heading up the first South Dakota Shakespeare Festival, according to Allen.

As the bard said, all the world's a stage. Thanks to Coyoteopoly and the USD College of Fine Arts, Shakespeare will spend three days on stage in Vermillion free to the public.

"It's a big deal for Shakespeare lovers out there," Allen said.

Center

Holding a handmade cardboard sign with "Vote No" written on it, Kristy Milne stood near a busy Sioux Falls intersection for more than an hour in 40-degree temperatures in an effort to sway voters deciding Tuesday on the fate of a proposed $115 million events center.

Residents in Sioux Falls were being asked to approve a proposal that would use money from a city sales tax already in place to help pay for the 12,000-seat center. The measure needed a majority of voters to pass.

"I don't think it's a good decision. I don't think it's right to use credit," said Milne, 29. "I think there are other ways to go about it."

Supporters of the project said it would energize the economy and draw more sports and entertainment events to the city. Opponents said the city should be focusing on areas other than entertainment and are disappointed that the proposed center would not be downtown.

Irrigators Along Niobrara River Lose Appeal

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A federal appeals court panel has found that irrigators along Nebraska's Niobrara River did not have their rights violated when the state ordered them to shut off their pumps in 2007.

In a ruling Monday, a three-judge panel of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a 2010 ruling by U.S. District Judge Lyle Strom in favor of the Nebraska Department of Natural Resources and the Nebraska Public Power District.

Strom ruled that the department did not violate the irrigators' property rights by shutting down their water use to allow the power district to use its senior water rights to produce electricity.

The appeals panel agreed that while irrigators have property rights related to water, they are subject to rights of senior users such as the power district.

Harvest Of S.D. Row Crops Wrapping Up

SIoux FALLS, S.D. (AP) — The harvest of row crops in South Dakota is nearing completion after another week of warm fall weather.

The Agriculture Department says in its weekly crop and weather report that the seeding of winter wheat also is finished, and the crop could use moisture for germination.
