Deadlines For Area Elks Scholarships

Area high school seniors will have the opportunity once again to apply for Elks National Foundation scholarships.

Information concerning scholarship applications has been forwarded to area high school guidance counselors. Graduating high school seniors who may be interested in said scholarships should contact the guidance counselor in their school. They may also call Yankton Elks Lodge 994 at 605-665-3333. Additional information is available by logging on to the Elks website www.elks.org/enf/scholars.

Ray Kooistra serves as chairman for the Yankton Elks Lodge Most Valuable Student Scholarship competition. Kooistra advises seniors who may be seeking higher education, either on the collegiate level or in vocational education, to strongly consider an Elks application.

"Only the federal government spends more on scholarships than does the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks," Kooistra said.

Oprah Winfrey furthered her education due, in part, to an Elks National Foundation scholarship.

Last year, more than $2 million in scholarship monies were awarded. One girl and one boy each will be awarded a $60,000 scholarship. Yankton Elks Lodge No. 994 has had a $4,000 scholarship winner eight of the last 11 years.

Yankton Elks Lodge awards six $300 scholarships each to three women and three men from the Yankton area. Applications submitted by these six top students are advanced to the South Dakota Elks Association for additional scholarship consideration. Deadline for submitting applications for local judging is Nov. 30.

Deadline for Elks scholarships Most Valuable & Vocational Grants are due Nov. 30. The Yankton Elks Lodge No. 994 will be awarding six $300 scholarships, three to men and three to women at the local level. These six award winners will then be sent on to the state level where the award winners may receive additional scholarship monies.

Application forms for Most Valuable, Emergency, & Legacy (awards for children of Elks) are available by downloading www.elks.org/enf/scholars.

South Dakota Vocational Grants are available by contacting your school counselor.

USD Club Commemorates Day Of The Dead

VERMILLION — For the second half of October, a pair of skeletons was on display in the University of South Dakota's I.D. Weeks Library, but they didn't have anything to do with Halloween.

Instead, they were part of an altar placed there by the campus Spanish Club in honor of the Day of the Dead — or el Día de los Muertos — which takes place on Nov. 1-2.

"It's a holiday celebrated throughout Mexico and around the world in other cultures," explained Spanish Club director Deborah Van Damme during a presentation Thursday, Nov. 1. "The holiday focuses on gatherings of family and friends to pray for and remember (those) who have died."

The yearly holiday is observed in connection with them with the Catholic holidays of All Saints' Day and All Souls' Day.

"Traditions connected with the holiday include building private al-

"Her work has been celebrated in Mexico as emblematic of national and indigenous traditions, and by feminists for its uncompromising depiction of female experience and form," said Spanish Club president Laren Bennett.

Primarily known for her self-portraits, Kahlo's work has been described as containing elements of folk art and surrealism, with cultural traditions playing a large role, as well, Bennett said.

Although the Spanish Club has placed shrines on campus in the past — most often in the Spanish Lab in Slagle Hall — this was the first time it was set up in the library.

"It was actually Lauren's idea, and we got a lot of acknowledgement from it," Van Damme said. "There are so many students and
