

Cultivating Great Minds.

A professor asks the right questions. That's the seed. Follow with discourse. That's the water. Add a culture built on the ambition of greatness, and you have sunlight — a lot of sunlight. The crop we care about is one that develops critical thinking, discovers new science, and engineers the future. What grows here drives itself to locations throughout the nation, landing in places like Citigroup, Daktronics, NBC and the USDA. This is where young minds go to become great. This is one of the nation's great universities: The biggest in the state. Hundreds of majors. A strong reputation. A major player in academic research. So if you're looking for one of America's great modern universities, plant yourself here. It's growing season. South Dakota State University. BE GREAT. START HERE.
