than 3 percent to any of them for the coming budget likely can't be done.
 State law requires a governor to deliver budget recommendations to the Legislature no later than the first Tuesday after the first Monday of December.
 Dilges said the fiscal 2016 budget books are already printed and ready for distribution to legislators.
 The speech is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. CST or shortly thereafter.
 The Legislature's Joint Committee on Appropriations oversees state government's budget and plans to meet after the speech Tuesday.
 The 18-member committee will formally begin work on the budget plan when the 2015 session opens at noon on Tuesday, Jan. 13.
 The legislative schedule calls for a main run of 38 working days through Friday, March 13. The thirty-ninth and final working day is set for Monday, March 30, for consideration of vetoes and any other unfinished business.
 South Dakota remains in a stronger position economically than the nation as a whole, according to recent statistics.
 The state's unemployment rate was second-lowest in the nation at 3.4 percent in September. That was an improvement over August and over September 2013. The national unemployment rate in September this year was 5.9 percent.
 South Dakota's total personal income grew 2.1 percent in 2013, slightly ahead of the national figure 2.0 percent.
 Non-farm employment rose by 2,000 jobs from September 2013 to September of this year. That was an increase of 0.5 percent.
 Corn and soybean production in South Dakota is expected to be at record highs this year, but prices for corn, soybeans, wheat and hay were all down compared to 2013.
 Housing starts also slowed from a year ago.

ago — in the dark.
 The outages were particularly bad in northern New England, where about 200,000 customers remained without power in New Hampshire on Thursday afternoon and about 80,000 were without electricity in Maine.
 More than 35,000 New York utility customers were without power Thursday afternoon and about 15,000 customers lacked power in New Jersey.
 In Putney, Vermont, Mike Mrowicki was in the middle of baking squash and making apple-cranberry crisp when his lights flickered off. Mrowicki said Thursday his family will improvise on its meal for 10 people.
 "We've got a gas stove, and we've got a woodstove we heat with," Mrowicki said. "We've got plenty of lanterns and candles."

HOLIDAY SHOPPING

To the delight of some and consternation of others, it's increasingly become commonplace to see stores open on Thanksgiving, as retailers try to entice shoppers inside and kick off the holiday shopping season a day earlier than the traditional Black Friday.
 Some of the stores open for at least part of the day on the holiday include Kmart, Target, Sears, Macy's and Wal-Mart. Other stores, like Neiman-Marcus, Nordstrom and Costco, are closed.
 At a Manhattan Kmart, Pamela Hill went for the 2-for-1 shoe special.
 "Yes, that's why I'm here," Hill said. "They are fitting, and they are comfortable. I'm wearing them out of the store. We are going to pay for them up front. Because I gotta get boots. My feet are freezing. I'm from Florida."
 Associated Press writer Dave Gram in Montpelier, Vermont, and Associated Press video journalist Ted Shaffrey in New York contributed to this report.
