Two Programs On POWs Available For Veterans Day

SIOUX FALLS — Old Guys and Their Airplanes (OGTA) announces the upcoming release of two 30-minute documentaries featuring prisoners of war (POWs) this Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

"The Wind Beneath Your Wings" shares the story of World War II fighter pilot Lt. Chris Morgan and his inspiring recovery from captivity in an especially brutal Japanese prison camp.

"There. And Back" tells the story of Vietnam War POW Capt. "Charlie" Plumb and his return to Hanoi to meet with former captors and foes.

"Veterans Day is the perfect time to share these unique stories," states producer and host John Mollison. "They're both inspiring and powerful. But the POW experience especially deserves greater understanding. It's easy to find suffering in war but it's not so easy to find the kind of triumph that Charlie and Chris have demonstrated via their whole lives."

Captain Plumb was shot down over Hanoi, North Vietnam, on May 19 1967, beginning nearly six years of grueling captivity in the infamous "Hanoi Hilton" prison system. The documentary was filmed over two weeks of travel from Hanoi to the western edge of southern Vietnam near Cambodia. Charlie met former enemies, the former commandant of Hoa Lo prison and also visited Gia Lam airport where he had last left the country on Feb. 19, 1973, during "Operation Homecoming."

Lt. Morgan was a fighter pilot who, on his first combat mission on Oct. 16, 1943, was forced to ditch his fighter plane in enemy-occupied Burma (now Myanmar). Captivity under the Japanese was brutal resulting in as high as a 40 percent death rate for allied prisoners. Yet through an indomitable will to live, Morgan endured beatings, starvation and jungle disease to return home in 1945. Recovery was challenging, but through determined support, he experienced healing and after the Vietnam War, used his understanding of war to become a recognized champion for returning POW and veterans rights.

Both shows will be distributed nationally via the Old Guys and Their Airplanes website. "There. And Back" will be broadcast in South Dakota at 10pm (CST), Nov. 11 on South Dakota Public Television.

Capt. Plumb will be making himself available on Nov. 11 for Q&A to anyone who logs onto a chat room created especially for this purpose (<http://ustre.am/1seTs>). The chat will begin at 5:30 p.m. PST (7:30 p.m. Central) and run throughout the evening, including availability to South Dakotans who tune after the show (10:30 pm CST).

Old Guys and Their Airplanes episodes are funded from grants and contributions from corporations, foundations and private sponsors. "There. And Back" was funded in part by grants from Sanford Health and Xerox. "The Wind Beneath Your Wings" was funded by in part by contributions of the family of Chris Morgan.

City Considers Refinancing Bonds Used For City Hall

BY SHAUNA MARLETTE
shauna.marlette@plaintalk.net

VERMILLION — The Vermillion City Council is considering refinancing the bonds used to build the new city hall.

At its noon meeting held Monday, the council heard from Tom Grimmond of Dougherty and Company on potentially refunding the bonds due to the potential savings for the community.

In 2007 the City Council issued $4,475,000 of Certificates of Participation in a Lease-Purchase Agreement to finance the building of city hall. The certificates interest rate ranged from 3.7 percent to 4.4 percent with maturity in December 2026. There was a call provision on the certificates that can be exercised any time after December 15, 2017.

By law, the city can do one advance refunding before the original call date.

The advance refunding projections would issue $2,700,000 of new certificates that will be held in escrow to pay the outstanding principal on the original certificates at the call date of December 15, 2017 of $2,565,000, the interest on the refunding certificates until the call date net of interest earned and costs if issuance for new certificates.

"The current rate the city is financed at is 4.35 percent," Grimmond said. "The suggested rate is 2.23 percent a savings of 2 percent, which in dollar amounts would save the city approximately

She loved cooking huge meals for the holidays and everyone was well fed. In her later years, she spent a lot of time going to grandchildren's sporting and school events. She spent hours sitting on her deck watching the finches, orioles, humming birds, and especially the cardinals that visited her many bird feeders. Myrna was always ready to go out and enjoy lunch or dinner with her husband, Herb.
