Cyber Security Awareness Month Tips Released

PIERRE — Gov. Mike Rounds has declared October as Cyber Security

Awareness month in South Dakota. Technology is an integral aspect of our daily lives, and cyber security is a shared responsibility for all online users.

In coordination with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), South Dakota is participating in the DHS national "Stop. Think. Connect" awareness campaign of promoting simple steps to increase safety and security online. When you cross the street, you look both ways to be sure it's safe. Staying safe on the Internet is much the same. It takes common sense steps: "Stop. Think.

Connect. • Stop: Before using the Internet, take time to understand the risks and learn how to spot potential problems. • Think: Take a moment to be certain the path ahead is clear. Watch for warning signs and consider how your actions online could affect your safety and that of your family.

• Connect: Enjoy the Internet with greater confidence, knowing you've taken the right steps to safeguard yourself and your computer. Protect yourself and help keep the Web a safer place for everyone.

"Privacy and security have always been valued by South Dakotans," said Otto Doll, commissioner of the South Dakota Bureau of Information & Telecommunications. "Those values need to be emphasized within the cyber world also. Just as crossing the street or locking the doors to your home are fundamental habits, you need to employ similar practices when online. Take some time to educate yourself and understand that cyber security is a shared responsibility.'

Ken Walsh To Address USD Students

World

VERMILLION — For more than two decades, Ken Walsh has reported on the White House full-time for U.S. News & World Report, and at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 21, students at The University of South Dakota will learn firsthand his experiences of covering five presidents and every national presidential camby the W.O. Farber Center for Civic Leadership and the USD Political Science League, Walsh, U.S. News & World Report Chief White House Correspondent, will discuss everything from campaign strategies to the current presidency of Barack Obama in his program, "The Barack Obama Presidency: New Directions, New Challenges and a Historical Perspective," at 4 p.m. at Farber Hall in Old Main.

Walsh is former president of the White House Correspondents' Association and he has taught advanced courses as an adjunct professor of communication at American University in vears in addition to holding his White House position, supervising a staff of a dozen reporters, editing their copy, and directing their work in conjunction with the national editor.

The author of four books, "From Mount Vernon to Crawford: A History of the Presidents and Their Retreats" (2005); "Air Force One: A History of the Presidents and Their Planes" (2003); "Feeding the Beast: The White House Versus the Press" (second edition, 2002), and "Ronald Reagan: Biography" (1997), Walsh received the Gerald R. Ford Prize for Distinguished Coverage of the Presidency in 1992, 1998 and 2009, and the Aldo Beckman Award in 1991 and 2007. He was inducted into the Hall of Washington, Fame of the Washington D.C.
