

Students, Employers Set For Fourth Annual USD Career Fair

VERMILLION — The University of South Dakota Academic and Career Planning Center is hosting a Career Fair on the USD campus from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 4, at the Muenster University Center.

The fourth annual USD Career Fair will allow students to apply for part-time and full-time job opportunities, and internships with regional businesses and industries that will be in attendance throughout the day in the ballroom of the Muenster University Center.

"This is a chance for students to engage businesses and organizations, and explore career-development possibilities whether it's an internship, or a full-time or a part-time job," said Clarence Pederson, specialist with the Academic and Career Planning Center.

Career Planning Center is available year round for students to assist them with career and academic planning, employment strategies and graduate school applications.

Many times a short 1 or 2 minute impromptu answer to an issue, without dialogue, only clouds the real answer.

CLARIFICATION

After reviewing my answer and the comments I made on the county Mag Water issue at The Center forum on October 14th I can see how it may have been misinterpreted. I would like to thank the individual that heard my comments, second hand, for calling me for clarification of that issue.

My opinion is that once the county begins a project they are obligated long term. That being said I personally feel the county should have been proactive and open minded enough to experiment with several other products that are currently available and being used nationally, with success, at a much lower cost.

I do not favor any further expansion of Mag Water use (except in the areas currently being treated) unless we are willing to look at and experiment with other long term and more cost effective options. If those options do not work, and are truly found not to be more cost effective, we can at the very least say we attempted to save the taxpayer some money. If it works, and is cost effective, there is always the possibility of expanding dust control to other areas of the county with the savings realized.

I hope this clarifies my stance on this issue and if anyone should have questions please feel free to contact me.

Thank you.
