Collaborating With Lou Reed 'Scary' For Metallica

BY ALICIA QUARLES
AP Entertainment Writer

NEW YORK — Metallica and the word "scared" don't usually go together.

But fear was one of the emotions that band members felt when they began work on their latest album, "Lulu," a collaboration with Lou Reed that will be released Tuesday.

"That was scary, but it was also so exciting to think, 'Is he going to tell us what to play? Are we going to know what to play? Is he going to start singing randomly? Should we figure out some parts?'" lead singer James Hetfield said in an interview. "We have had many different ways of recording, and this is yet another new way for us."

Reed and Metallica, both members of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, first performed together at the hall's 25th-anniversary concerts in 2009. They found that they had amazing chemistry together.

That chemistry prompted them to go into the studio together, but the concept for the album started as a work that was the brainchild of Reed, based on the "Lulu" plays ("Earth Spirit" and "Pandora's Box") written by Frank Wedekind.

"This was the template from God," Reed explained in an interview Monday night with Hetfield and Lars Ulrich. "It was written for a play in Berlin, for the Berlin Ensemble Theatre. It was done there as a soundscape surrounded by various electronics. I lifted the whole thing, since it is mine, and brought it over to them and turned them loose on it so that on top of the electronics, (it) became Metallica."

Ulrich said most of the album was recorded in four days.

"We had no idea what hit us, so it was a lot about just being in the moment and playing with each other and giving the impulsivity a chance to be the predominant thing instead of thinking," the Metallica drummer said. "It was a more physical experience than a mental experience."

Reed, inducted into the Rock Hall as part of the Velvet Underground, has worked with everyone from The Killers to David Bowie, but considers his work with Metallica to be "the best music I have ever done."

So far, reviews have been mixed. But Reed insists that he doesn't care what the critics say. "I wouldn't care what a critic said about anything, including a hamburger joint. There is no species of people I have less respect for."

Lambertz said, while it did take a while to get the date booked with Williams and Ree, he is sure the effort is going to pay off for the community and the theatre.

"It was a matter of finding the availability when they could do it and, of course, when we could afford to do it," he said. "The community is supporting us, and what that does is, it opens the doors for us to do more venues — getting people who haven't been here before a chance to see the theatre and the value we are offering."

As of early Thursday, Lambertz said that ticket sales have been going very well.

"We only have about 50 tickets left on the main floor, and then the balcony left," he said. "So, people need to get their tickets ordered soon, because not only will they save $5 on the ticket price, they get a better choice of seats.

"I really believe the community is excited about Williams and Ree coming in. I think we will have a sold-out house of close to 570 people, which is what will make the show more fun — the audience participation."

Advance tickets for the 7:30 p.m. show will be sold for Williams and Ree until 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 4 at the Dakota Theatre box office. Tickets will be available at the door on Saturday. Call (605) 665-4711, Monday-Friday, (noon-5 p.m.) for more information.

"If you haven't gotten tickets, find a friend you want to have fun with and come to the show," Lambertz said. "Williams and Ree — the name says it all. They have been doing this right for the last 40 years, so come out and enjoy the show."
