"We ran really well. The guy all ran really well," said Ethan-Parkston head coach Jared Digmann. 'Looking at the times, they're a little bit slower that what we're capable of, but it was not the best day.

"I'm proud of what we ran. I think we can be a lot closer to the top two. It's not that far apart, but I think we could be closer.'

The team race was decided in the tight pack between seventh and 20th, as less than 15 seconds separated those places and all four of the top teams nad runners in that pack. "We have a guy at 10th and 17th, and there's only a handful of seconds between those two," Digmann said. "That's a lot of points that could go either way."

simple - see if she could stay with McMains for a while. "She's always been out in front,"

Lavin said. "I just wanted to see if I could stick with her to see if I could get a better time." Dakota Valley put four runners in the top 19, led by eighth grader Marisa Schulz' fifth place finish, to claim the final team berth out of the region. The Panthers will take four freshmen and two eighth graders to Huron.

'We thought we could go anywhere from second to fourth, so we knew we had a good chance of getting third," said Panthers head coach Tiffany Wendling. "Marisa really picked it up, which is exactly what we needed her to do. Our next three runners, they run together and break apart at the end, and continue to push each other all the way through."
