Anyone wishing to report contributing to the low tax reanonymous information on unlawful ceipts. The senator is a coactivity in the City of Yankton or in sponsor of the proposed Yankton County is encouraged to contact the Crime Stoppers tip line Marketplace Fairness Act, which would give states the power to require online retailers to collect state sales tax due on sales made. Currently, South Dakota residents are responsible for reporting the taxes on such purchases.

"We're also adjusting to seeing a major retailer come to Yankton last year with Menards," Nelson said. "It's a little bit of an adjustment, but I'd say the amount of Internet sales definitely has an impact on the amount of sales tax.' During discussion about future development, Johnson said he was disappointed that funding was being cut for community development block grants (CDBG), as Yankton has taken advantage of such funding in the past. "I'm a big believer in the CDBG program, but the money's not there," he said. "I'll do my best to help it survive, but it doesn't look good." Johnson also expressed concern over the availability of affordable housing in Yankton, as many other communiChristopher Dean Kniffen, 816 ties in South Dakota are dealing with the same problem. Nelson said the city has begun to address the issue with its housing study, which should be completed by the end of the year.

Our community development department has seen a lot more people looking into opportunities for housing in Yankton — not just affordable, but also that mid-range of what I would call starter homes, where families are looking to upgrade from a rental but aren't ready to buy the big house quite yet," she said. "The House hasn't got around to it as quickly as we would like," he said. "The problem is they separated out the nutrition program from the farm program. That isn't helping us with the passage of the bill. ... There are more members of the House that don't care about farm policy, but they care about nutrition. We'll see what happens, but so far, I'm encouraged by the House passing their own farm bill.

Thank You

We would like to extend our sincere thank you to Dr. James Pajl and the staff at the Veterinarian Medical Clinic for the kind and compassionate care they gave our dog, and wonderful companion Vickie. She fought cancer for the last year and we had to say goodbye to her this last Friday. Losing Vickie was just like losing a family member and Dr. Pajl and his staff treated her like she was family.

The DNA analysis should be complete within 30 to 90 days, Jackley said.

Once those tests results are received, he said more information concerning the investigation would be released both to family members and to the public.

"When the DNA results come back and we've had an opportunity to provide that to the families ... that would probably be the appropriate time," Jackley said, "for us to gather everybody back and say 'this is what we have.'
