Pro Bowling Brings Links-Style Scoring To Lanes

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Never mind adding up all those strikes and spares. Pro bowlers are bringing Ryder Cup-style scoring to the alleys. At the World Bowling Tour finals next month in Las Vegas, players will ditch traditional scoring in favor of a match play format, more commonly seen on the links than the lanes. The one-on-one matches will go a maximum of 12 frames. Players start at all square, and can go 1 up, 2 up, 1 down and so on until one person is ahead by more frames than are left. A final score will look like one in match play — for instance, "3 and 2," or "1 up."

IMG's David Witty Hired As Nebraska Associate AD

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska athletic director Shawn Eichorst has announced the hiring of David Witty as senior associate athletic director in charge of marketing and communications. Eichorst said Thursday that Witty was selected after a national search and will begin his duties Nov. 17. Witty for the last eight years has been vice president and general manager of Husker IMG Sports Marketing. He previously spent more than two decades with the Kansas City Royals in media relations and marketing. Witty earned his bachelor's degree from Kansas State and his master's in sports administration from St. Thomas University in Florida.

Lakers' Nash Ruled Out For Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers guard Steve Nash has been ruled out for the season because of a back injury, putting the two-time NBA MVP's career in doubt. The Lakers and Nash announced their joint decision Thursday, less than a week before the start of what would have been the 40-year-old Nash's 19th NBA season. He played in only 15 games last season with nerve root irritation, but hoped for a comeback season after several months of rehabilitation. Instead, the Canadian point guard played in just three pre-season games before feeling more back pain. He then strained his back while carrying bags several days ago. "Being on the court this season has been my top priority, and it is disappointing to not be able to do that right now," Nash said. "I work very hard to stay healthy, and unfortunately my recent setback makes performing at full capacity difficult. I will continue to support my team during this period of rest, and will focus on my long-term health."

Nash will "focus on rest and rehabilitation," according to the team's news release. He is in the final season of his three-year contract with the Lakers, but the club's announcement made no mention of possible retirement. Nash has played in only 65 games since the Lakers traded four draft picks for him in 2012 in a spectacularly failed attempt to assemble a title contender built around Kobe Bryant, Dwight Howard, Pau Gasol and Nash. Nash, the NBA's oldest active player, is due more than $9 million this season. "As disappointed as we are for ourselves and our fans, we're even more disappointed for Steve," Lakers general manager Mitch Kupchak said. "We know how hard he's worked the last two years to try to get his body right for the rigors of the NBA, and how badly he wants to play, but unfortunately he simply hasn't been able to get there up to this point in time. Steve has been a consummate professional, and we greatly appreciate his efforts."

Nash is the greatest player in Canadian history and one of the most complete offensive guards of his generation. He is third on the NBA's career assists list, trailing only John Stockton and Jason Kidd. Nash also is the most accurate free-throw shooter in NBA history, barely edging Mark Price's career mark at 90.4 percent. During training camp, Nash said he realized the upcoming season likely would be his last. Yet he refused to call it a farewell tour, holding out hope of playing beyond this season if his back held up under the pounding of a full NBA schedule. Instead, he couldn't even make it to opening night, a bitter disappointment for a dynamic competitor who hasn't won a title. Nash won two MVP awards with the Phoenix Suns while leading one of the most dynamic offenses in NBA history. His playmaking and scoring abilities have earned him worldwide recognition and eight All-Star game selections.
