AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Woods

raise a family. I see many talented young people moving away and I want to help create attractive careers (not jobs) to keep them in Yankton County. I have grown up in the area my entire life and I want a place where my children (and yours) can move home to after college/tech school/military. I want to see new businesses and people move to Yankton and make this a greater place to live and work.

What experiences do you feel have prepared you for the position?

I spent the first 10 years of my career in public service as a law enforcement officer. The majority of that time I worked for Yankton Sheriff's and Police departments.

For the past 10 years, I have been in business, six years running my own business as a Financial Associate, advising clients on investing and protecting their futures. In my current position as Vice President/Trust Officer, I continue to guide my clients in their investment and estate planning needs.

In my entire career I have had a fiduciary responsibility to do what is right for the customers and the people. I believe this is what an elected official needs to do, always look out for the best interest of the citizens.

What do you think the biggest issue is at the county level and how would you address it?

We need to embrace our two biggest industries in Yankton County, agriculture and tourism.

Agriculture is the life blood of Yankton County and South Dakota. We need to find ways to help our farmers and agriculture businesses be successful. Like it or not, Yankton has been called anti-agriculture and I want to change that perception.

Our lake area is the jewel of South Dakota and attracts over a million visitors a year. We need to find ways to make this area thrive and utilize new technology. We need to improve the cellular coverage and have a plan on how we will develop the Highway 52 corridor.

How do commissioners balance the needs of a growing city (Yankton) while also addressing the needs of smaller communities throughout the county?

As a commissioner of Yankton County, I will represent the entire county. Growing up in the Tabor area, I know how important these communities are. Everyone doesn't want to live in a bigger city and we need to continue to include these communities in our overall plan for growth. When businesses expand, whether in city or county, the population will grow in all the communities. This will help all school districts (Yankton, Irene, and Gayville-Volin, etc.) and businesses in all the communities. It will increase our tax base so we can keep our taxes affordable and continue to provide quality services.

What are your thoughts on the Napa Junction project and how it unfolded?

There is no such thing as a perfect plan where everyone is going to be happy but in my opinion the pros outweighed the cons. Dakota Plains would have given our farmers another place to sell their grains; hired local contractors; bought materials from local merchants; partnered with a developer with roots in the community (YAPG) to bring in additional business, jobs, and taxes; committed $4-$7 million in private funds to re-build four miles of the Utica/Tabor roads to S.D. DOT specifications. The money saved on maintenance on those roads could have been utilized on other county roads.

It was too good of an opportunity to pass up and I would have helped to lead the way to get it done.

What major development projects do you foresee in the county's future?

We need to improve our cell/data coverage as most everyone has a smart/cell phone for business and personal use. With a million plus lake visitors (mostly families) each year, we need to provide improved date coverage which improves the safety of the area in the event of an emergency. The current ordinance should be reevaluated regarding additional towers. Towers can be built in a way that is aesthetically to the tourists as well as land owners.

We need to collaborate with other entities in the county, i.e. District III, YAPG, City of Yankton, talented department heads, and other professionals to develop and grow. We are all part of Yankton County and working together will make us great.

Additional thoughts?

I am excited about representing you on the Yankton County Commission. My promise to you is I will bring professionalism, respect, new ideas and leadership to the Yankton County Commission. I believe if we do the little things right, the big things will happen!

Gunman In Canada Attack Complained About Mosque

BY RACHEL LA CORTE
Associated Press

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The gunman who shot and killed a soldier in plain daylight then stormed Canada's Parliament once complained that a Vancouver mosque he attended was too liberal and inclusive, and was kicked out after he repeatedly spent the night there even though officials told him to stop, Muslim leaders said Friday.

Asim Rashid, spokesman for the British Columbia Muslim Association, said Michael Zehaf-Bibeau visited the Masjid Al-Salaam mosque for three to four months toward the end of 2011, and possibly early 2012, before he was told not to come back.

Rashid said that before Zehaf-Bibeau got in trouble for using the mosque for accommodations, he had complained to leaders in the previous administration about the mosque's openness and willingness to let non-Muslims visit.

"The mosque administration sat him down and explained to him that this is how they run the mosque and that they will keep the doors open to all Muslims and non-Muslims who want to visit," he said at a news conference held at the mosque Friday.

Rashid said that Zehaf-Bibeau was told he should go pray at a different mosque if he disagreed. However, he stayed until he was ultimately asked to leave when officials learned he was still sleeping in the mosque while battling legal troubles.

After the second or third time, he was told to leave the premises and "not to come back," Rashid said.

"This was the last interaction that the people of the mosque here have had with him," he said.

Zehaf-Bibeau, 32, shot a soldier to death at Canada's national war memorial Wednesday, and was eventually gunned down inside Parliament by the sergeant-at-arms.

His motive remains unknown, but Prime Minister Stephen Harper has called the shooting a terror attack, and the bloodshed raised fears that Canada is suffering reprisals for joining the U.S.-led air campaign against Islamic State extremists in Iraq and Syria.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police released two photos of Zehaf-Bibeau on Friday evening in an effort to elicit information from the public. One is of the car he used in the attack and the other is mug shot taken by Vancouver police. Police say they are particularly interested in information from his time in Ottawa from Oct. 2.

The attack in Ottawa came two days after a man described as an "ISIL-inspired terrorist" ran over two soldiers in a parking lot in Quebec, killing one and injuring the other before being shot to death by police. The man had been under surveillance by Canadian authorities, who feared he had jihadist ambitions and seized his passport when he tried to travel to Turkey.

Rashid said the Muslim association has been working on a preventive program that focuses on minimizing the effect of terrorist and criminal propaganda in Canada. He decried the recent violence.

"These are acts of criminal violence and show utter disregard for human life and the laws of the world as well as its religions," he said. "We openly denounce the propaganda of the lawless groups trying to incite Canadians to hurt other Canadians."

In July, another man who attended the Masjid Al-Salaam mosque, 25-year-old Hasibullah Yusufzai, was charged under a new anti-terrorism law for allegedly leaving the country to join Islamist fighters in Syria.

Yusufzai is believed to have left Canada in January.

Rashid said Yusufzai attended the mosque two or three years ago.

"We do know that at some point he was asked to leave this mosque because of certain views he was expressing," he said.

While he was living in Vancouver in 2011, Zehaf-Bibeau was arrested on a robbery charge. During a court-ordered psychological evaluation, he said he committed the crime for the sole purpose of getting incarcerated. An evaluation said Zehaf-Bibeau believed jail was the only way to overcome a crack addiction and that as a devoted Muslim, he thought prison time was a way to pay for his mistakes.

Unlike the attacker in the Quebec case, Zehaf-Bibeau was not being watched by authorities. But a top police official said Zehaf-Bibeau — whose father was from Libya — may have lashed out in frustration over delays in getting his passport.

Bob Paulson, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said the police commissioner said Zehaf-Bibeau's email was found on the hard drive of someone charged with a terrorist-related offense. He didn't say who and described the connection as tenuous.
