2015 Local Foods Conference Set

BROOKINGS — The fifth annual South Dakota Local Foods Conference is scheduled for Nov. 6-7 at Cadillac Jack's Resort in Deadwood (360 Main St.)

"The local foods movement is gaining momentum around the nation and this conference offers timely information on business. marketing and production," said Chris Zdorovtsov, SDSU Extension Community Development Field Specialist.

Other components of the event include local food meals, a local food panel of successful stories, a vendor show, and producer and resource provider networking.

Friday, Nov. 6 will consist of a number of sessions focused on marketing topics including: utilizing the fresh fruit and vegetable program for school sales, a marketplace panel and community supported agriculture (CSÅ) as well as production topics, such as growing healthy berries, season extension, permaculture, honey bees and organic production. In-depth sessions will also be ĥeld Nov. 6 on specialty crops and traditional foods on the reservations as well as business tools and analysis for farm enterprises.

On Nov. 7, a discussion will be held on "Getting to the State of Local Foods," presented by keynote speaker, Marty Travis from Stewards of the Land Food Hub out of Illinois.

In-depth sessions on Nov. 7 will include the topics of food hubs with focus for both producers and buyers, food safety and developing GAP plans, and estate planning and farm transitions.

The Local Foods Conference is sponsored by a collaboration of partners including: SDSU Extension, South Dakota Specialty Producers Association, South Dakota USDA Rural Development, Dakota Rural Action, the South Dakota Small Business Administration and the South Dakota Department of Agriculture.

The conference is meant to continue the dialogue on local foods among producers, growers, consumers, school nutrition programs, grocers, restaurants and resource providers.

Registration information can be obtained by visiting http://www.iGrow/events or contact Chris Zdorovtsov at christina.zdorovtsov@ sdstate.edu or at 605-782-3290 for more information. The deadline to register is Oct. 20.
