Omaha Royals Plan Events To Mark End Of Rosenblatt

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The Omaha Royals are planning to celebrate Rosenblatt Stadium during the final regular season game there this week.

When the Royals play the Round Rock Express Thursday, there will be a fan festival beforehand, appearances by former players and fireworks afterward.

The first 2,000 fans who arrive after the gates open at 5:30 p.m. will receive miniature stadium seats.

The free festival before the game will also feature inflatables, face painters, live music and clowns.

A new downtown ballpark will replace Rosenblatt next year. The site of Rosenblatt will be used to expand the Omaha Zoo.

The stadium was built in 1947 and hosted the College World Series for the 61st, and last, time in June.

The Royals are moving to a new stadium in Sarpy County.

YST Winter Signup Oct. 3

The Yankton Swim Team will hold registrations for its winter season on Sunday, Oct. 3 at 4 p.m. at the Summit Activities Center.

Swimmers should come prepared to swim for testing.

Contact Coach Seth Brooks at swimyst@yahoo.com or go online to swimyst.com for more information.

WSC's Daniel Earns D2Football.com Honor

WAYNE, Neb. — Wayne State College junior defensive end Richard Daniel was named D2Football.com Defensive Player of the Week Wednesday morning following his performance in last Saturday's 24-17 overtime win over then ranked No. 13 Nebraska-Kearney. It's the second player of the week honor for Daniel this week after being named the NSIC Defensive Player of the Week on Monday.

The 6-1, 210 pounder from Papillion-LaVista High School had seven tackles, including two sacks and 3.5 tackles for loss for minus 17 yards in the Wildcats' win over the Lopers. Daniel also forced a fumble, recovered a fumble and had one quarterback hurry.

Wayne State, ranked 25th in this week's AFCA Division II Top 25 Coaches Poll, is off this weekend and will host Minnesota-Crookston on Saturday, Sept. 11 in a 1 p.m. contest at Bob Cunningham Field in Wayne.

Bowling Leagues Forming

Bowling leagues are now being formed at Yankton Bowl, with openings for men's, women's, mixed and youth teams.

For more information, contact Jan Putnam at 661-1174 or by e-mail at yanktonusbc@hotmail.com. For league types, times, availability or other info, contact Yankton Bowl at 665-7638.

sparked by two Bulaga kills and a kill each from Kroll and freshman Natalie Walseth — to cut the lead to 12-11.

USD was as close as 22-18 after an Aschoff kill but got no closer in a 25-19 loss.

Kroll led with 17 digs, while junior Carol Logato added 16. Sophomore Jill Fields added 16. Olsen led with four blocks, while Kritenbrink had seven kills and 10 digs.

USD's next action is Friday at the Northern Colorado Classic in Greeley, Colo. The Coyotes will open the event with a contest against Fairfield at 11:30 a.m. Central time.

BIG TEN

tions, none bigger than Michigan vs. Ohio State.

"I'm very pleased that we came out of this with protected rivalries that will go on permanently with Ohio State and Michigan State," Michigan athletic director Dave Brandon told The Associated Press. "We'll play Ohio State in the last game of the regular season, following a tradition that has lasted for decades. And if we both earn the right, we can play the Buckeyes again in the Big Ten championship game."

There was speculation the Michigan-Ohio State game could be pushed out of its end-of-season spot, maybe even into October. It sent some fans into an outrage and Delany said that was a factor in the final decision.

"We heard the fans, there's no doubt about their voices mattered," Delany said.

For years, the matchup known simply as "The Game" in Big Ten country has been the conference's signature rivalry, one of the most storied and tradition-rich in all of sports. The Buckeyes and Wolverines have played 106 times since 1897.

Twenty-two times "The Game" has determined whether Ohio State or Michigan won the Big Ten championship.

Never was the rivalry more intense or more significant than from the late 1960s through the '70s, when Ohio State coach Woody Hayes and Michigan coach Bo Schembechler waged what has been dubbed "the Ten-Year War."

While "The Game" will never be the same since the title won't be at stake in the regular season, the league is still banking on it to be a big deal. And then there's the tantalizing possibility of even bigger TV ratings if the maize and blue meet the scarlet and gray in the league championship less than a month later.

"I think it's a great opportunity for both programs to win divisions and be in the championship games," Ohio State athletic director Gene Smith said on the Big Ten Network, "and if we do play back to back, and if you look back over history quite frankly it's rare that happens, if it does happen it's great for fans."

Delany said the Big Ten was not motivated to preserve the possibility of having Michigan and Ohio State, its two highest-profile programs, play in the new championship game.

"I'm convinced that whoever makes it, the championship is going to do a great (television rating)," he said. "I'm not worrying about repeats or Ohio State or Michigan."

Michigan-Ohio State wasn't the only tradition for Big Ten officials to consider. No conference has more trophy games than the Big Ten.

Longtime rivals such as Iowa and Minnesota, Michigan and Michigan State, and Purdue and Indiana wound up in the same division. Wisconsin and Minnesota were split, but the Badgers and Gophers will be cross-divisional rivals and play each season.

That means Iowa can still square off each fall with Minnesota for Floyd of Rosedale, a bronze statue of a pig, and Minnesota and Michigan can now play for the Little Brown Jug every season.

The other cross-divisional rivalries will be: Nebraska and Penn State, pitting the Big Ten's two newest members; Indiana and Michigan State, which play for the Brass Spittoon; and Iowa and Purdue; and in-state rivals Illinois and Northwestern.

Rivalries that took a hit were Iowa and Wisconsin, which play for the Heartland Trophy, and Penn State and Michigan State, which play for the Land Grant Trophy.
