Storm Damage Reported In SE S.D.

MITCHELL (AP) — Farmers in southeast South Dakota are reporting more storm damage. The roof of Elmer Muntefering's hog barn was blown off Monday night, a month after a storm damaged other buildings on his rural Dimock farm. The lumberyard in the town also lost the roof on a building Monday night, and the storm blew out windows in several vehicles. Letcher farmer Jim Edwards lost five grain bins and town residents lost power and some trees Monday night when the strong storms blew through. Building damage also was reported in the Platte, Herrick, Wagner and Marty areas.

Neb. Education Board Discusses Health Care

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Nebraska State Board of Education has discussed but not voted on a resolution to support repeal of federal health care reform. The board discussed the resolution from board member Bob Evnen of Lincoln on Wednesday. Evnen was expected to introduce another resolution on Thursday that the board could vote on. The resolution from Evnen followed a letter Gov. Dave Heineman sent to education groups urging them to support the repeal of federal health care reform or he would assume they tacitly support a likely reduction in education funding. Heineman and Evnen point to a study paid for by the state that says state Medicaid costs will increase by hundreds of millions of dollars. Another study says the cost will be much less.

Feds Recommend Dismissing Gun Suit

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A federal magistrate is recommending the dismissal of a lawsuit filed by eight states seeking freedom from federal gun laws. The recommendation now goes to the federal judge hearing the case. The states argue they should decide which rules would control the sale and purchase of guns and paraphernalia made inside their borders. The federal magistrate on Wednesday sided with the U.S. Department of Justice and gun control advocates who say the courts have already decided that Congress can set standards on such items as guns through its power to regulate interstate commerce. The states in the lawsuit are Montana, Utah, Alabama, Idaho, South Carolina, South Dakota, Wyoming and West Virginia.

Neb. Sens. Support Arizona Case Appeal

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Two Nebraska state senators have signed court papers in support of the Arizona law designed to crack down on illegal immigration and that has been mostly blocked by a judge. Sens. Charlie Janssen of Fremont and Tony Fulton of Lincoln said Wednesday they had signed onto court briefs that were scheduled to be submitted to a federal appeals court Wednesday. The briefs were to be filed by State Legislators for Legal Immigration, a national group to which Fulton and Janssen belong. Janssen has said in recent months he plans to introduce an Arizona-style law to the Legislature when it convenes in January. He reiterated those plans on Wednesday.

S.D. Disaster Paid Out $12.3M So Far

PIERRE (AP) — South Dakota's Office of Emergency Management says it has paid more than $12 million so far to help local governments and rural electric cooperatives recover from a series of disasters. The payments to restore damaged public infrastructure such as roads, bridges and power lines include about $10.9 million in Federal Emergency Management Agency aid and $1.4 million in state funds. FEMA reimburses 75 percent of eligible costs and the state 10 percent. Local governments must pay the rest. Total payments for recovery from five presidentially declared disasters are expected to be far higher than the $12.3 million announced Wednesday. The disasters include a Christmas week blizzard, a late-January ice storm, an early April snowstorm and prolonged flooding and severe rain storms.

Police: S.D. Teen Wanted To Be 'Infamous Sociopath'

BY DAVE KOLPACK
Associated Press Writer
SISSETON — An 18-year-old high school student stockpiled bomb-making materials in his bedroom and wrote about wanting to blow up his school, target individuals he hated, rape women and "become the world's most infamous sociopath," authorities said. Joseph Thomas Hansen, of Claire City, was arrested Aug. 23 after someone tipped off a police school resource officer that Hansen had talked about an attack, authorities said. "Thanks to an alert citizen and a school resource officer, they were able to prevent a very serious and potentially dangerous situation," state Attorney General Marty Jackley said by phone Wednesday. Hansen pleaded not guilty Tuesday to selling, transporting or possessing an explosive device and possessing substances with the intent to make a destructive device, and is due back in court Sept. 14. If convicted of all charges, he could face up to 25 years in prison, Jackley said. Hansen remained jailed Wednesday in lieu of $500,000 bond and was unavailable to comment. A man who answered the phone at the family's home who identified himself as Hansen's father, Roland Hansen, referred questions to his son's attorney, Scott Bratland. Bratland did not immediately return phone messages seeking comment. During a search of Hansen's room, investigators found a list Hansen wrote of things he wanted to do, including blow up

Sisseton High School — where he was set to begin his senior year the day after his arrest — torture and rape women and "become the world's most infamous sociopath," according to an affidavit filed Monday. He listed 39 people he hated and the reasons why, and he researched the 1999 Columbine school massacre in Littleton, Colo., in which two student gunmen killed 12 classmates and a teacher and wounded 26 others before committing suicide, investigators said. Detectives also found drawings of swastikas, documents outlining two attempts to make napalm, instructional materials on how to make bombs, four guns and a video showing two explosive devices detonating, according to the affidavit. Two people whose names were redacted in the affidavit told Roberts County Sheriff's investigators that Hansen told them he "had enough fireworks to blow up Sisseton and that the first day of school would be a short one," the court documents state.
