Some Risks Are Worth Taking. Your Health Isn't One Of Them. Skin cancer is the most common of all cancers, accounting for 20 to 50 percent of all cancer cases diagnosed each year. While some forms of skin cancer are more dangerous than others, early detection and prompt treatment of any malignant area is of the utmost importance. Causes and risk factors for skin cancer include fair skin tone, frequent exposure to ultraviolet rays, family history and age. Symptoms may appear as spots; irregular moles; bumps; discoloration; sores; or scaly, reddish, bleeding or oozing skin. The American Cancer Society recommends a skin examination every three years between the ages of 20 and 40, with annual exams after age 40. They also suggest performing a monthly self-examination in front of a full-length mirror, checking all areas of the body including palms, soles, back of the torso and back of the legs. Concerned about skin cancer? Dr. Lisa Miller will present a free seminar on preventative measures and the detection and treatment of skin cancer on Monday, September 27th, 7:00pm at Lewis & Clark Specialty Hospital.
