Newby

Newby grew up 15 minutes from the UCLA campus and was delighted the Bruins wanted him. But by then he already had made two visits to Nebraska and he and his parents felt Lincoln was the right place for him.

"I had a good relationship with the coaching staff, I felt they brought the right guys in and I felt it was a great atmosphere here," Newby said. "I love it. I really fell in love with the guys here and the coaching staff."

Newby and Brown connected quickly. Newby's dad, Terrell Newby Sr., grew up in Chicago and is a lifelong Bears fan. He passed on to his son stories about the exploits of Payton. Brown was a defensive back at Brown University in the 1970s and got to know Payton when he was in training camp with the Bears. Brown and Newby discussed Payton's inspirational work habits and attitude.

Brown also sold Newby on the long tradition of running backs at Nebraska and the program's continuing commitment to the running game. "When I come in I'll be part of a legacy," Newby said, remembering what Brown told him. "It's cool to be part of that now. Ahman Green. Johnny Rodgers. There's a list of guys. Just to even be part of that, to be mentioned with them, is an honor."

Brown said he knew Newby would have to contribute right away because Rex Burkhead graduated and two other running backs had transferred from Nebraska the past two years.

"When we saw him in camp that first scrimmage against our varsity defense, he lit it up pretty good," Brown said. "You knew there was something special there."

In the opener against Wyoming, Newby ran nine times for 47 yards during a 13-play scoring drive that gave Nebraska a 16-point lead in the fourth quarter. He finished with 76 yards on 15 carries in the 37-34 win.

Last week he bounced back from a fumble to break a 20-yard run at the start of the Huskers' final scoring drive in the 56-13 victory over Southern Miss. It was on that same drive he drew his penalty for pushing his left hand into Alexander Walters' facemask as he went out of bounds on a 19-yard run.

"No one really said anything to me about it on the sideline," Newby said. "I just stiff-armed him like we stiff-arm the sled every day in practice. I didn't know it was going to be a personal foul."

Newby said he tried to not think about the game against UCLA until this week, even though friends back home have reminded him about it since he verbally committed to the Huskers in January.

UCLA coach Jim Mora said he's watched film of Newby this season and that nothing he's done has surprised him.

"He's a very good player and he's going to be a great player, and we really liked him," Mora said. "He's a local kid, and we were disappointed to lose him to Nebraska, obviously. Hope he's happy there and has a lot of success — just very limited success this weekend."

Strahl said that the opening loss was tough, but that it pushed him to keep getting better.

"We didn't give up. We'd worked so hard to get to that, so we worked harder and got the results," he said.

The 16-point deficit against Stevens was a wakeup call, according to Hejna.

"We definitely came out flat, more than anything. When you look around the huddle we usually have that vibe, and it wasn't there," he said. "Then we came out like an entirely different team. One good play led to the next, and we continued to get things done throughout the game."

Of the 474 yards passing Strahl has on the season, 250 of it are to Hejna. But the junior quarterback has also hit six other receivers, including 6-7 Evan Greenway and 6-4 Matt Fitzgerald.

"I have three big guys that can go up and get it, speed guys that can stretch a defense and Jordan (Lightner) and Levi (Davis) out of the backfield," Strahl said. "That's huge for me. It makes my life easier."

Strahl also credits the individual whose record he broke, Michael Rucker, who had started the previous 2 1/2 seasons.

"I don't know if I'd have gotten it without him," Strahl said of Rucker, who set the previous mark of 315 yards in a game in 2011. "The little things he showed me helped me get that record."

Hejna broke one of the oldest records in the Yankton football books, set by YHS Hall of Famer Dave Bitterman in 1976. Bitterman held the single-game mark of 187 yards, and still holds marks for receptions in a season (40), receiving yards in a season (687) and career receptions (52) and receiving yards (1,076).

"It surprised me a lot. There are not a lot of old records like that left," Hejna said. "To have a record that old broken is definitely a privilege."

While Hejna enters Friday's game with Brandon Valley just 11 catches and 357 yards from those career marks, neither Strahl nor Hejna are concerned about records ... unless you're talking win-loss records.

"Records are great," Hejna said. "But they won't do me any good if we're not winning ball games."
