Police Search Leads To Scotland Arrest

BY RANDY DOCKENDORF
randy.dockendorf@yankton.net

SCOTLAND — Authorities have made at least one arrest in connection with the Thursday night search of a Scotland residence, according to one law enforcement officer.

However, details remain sketchy about the search, what was found and who was taken into custody.

The Press & Dakotan received a reader tip about authorities conducting a four-hour search and arrest at the home.

Bon Homme County Sheriff Lenny Gramkow confirmed that a search warrant had been issued, and the search focused on items related to burglary. He said an arrest resulted from the search but didn't specify whether it was one or more individuals.

The South Dakota Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI), the Bon Homme County sheriff's office and the Scotland Police Department worked on the case, Gramkow said.

The sheriff declined to provide more details. He referred further questions to the DCI and the Scotland police department.

Sara Rabern, the South Dakota attorney general's spokeswoman, was unable to provide more details Friday afternoon on the DCI involvement or on the case.

Scotland police chief Steve Knakmuhs could not be reached for comment Friday.

The Finance Committee will also meet at 10:30 a.m. Friday with Jim Means, Trust & Investment Advisor for Yankton College from First Dakota National Bank.

Traveling from around the nation and parts of the Midwest, the 19-member Board of Trustees and the 20-member Alumni Advisory Board attend these meetings held twice each year to foster the ongoing affairs of the College and maintain alumni relations.

they're OK, and spread out from there until emergency services can get there."

He added they can also supplement emergency services in the event of a major disaster.

"We've got 14 people and we're looking for more across the county to be able to, in the event of a mass casualty (situation), bring these folks in to help with water or food or helping when emergency services needs help during the event," he said. "They're there to assist in any way they can when emergency services have become overwhelmed. We're looking so, in the event that something happens, we've got the people outside the emergency service side of it."

Currently, Yankton is one of 11 CERT chapters in South Dakota.

He said there will be opportunity for people to sign up for further training and certification with CERT during Tuesday's event.

Scherschligt added that if the event goes over well, CERT may do more public training sessions.

"This is probably something we're going to be doing every year," he said. "If we see that we have a really good need for it, we might do more of them as the year goes on."

ON THIS DATE

75 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, September 14, 1938

- With the sun shining today and prospects for a period of clear weather after almost continuous rains since the first of September, Yankton began checking up on the amount of precipitation received. - Vermillion's 1963 opposition will have plenty of troubles, and if they don't believe it, just get the Bucks of Yankton to testify. - Duane Eichel of Parker, in his first try at a plowing contest, took the state level land plowing championship here (Hurley) Friday. He will represent the state in his division in national championship action at Vandalia, Ill.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, September 14, 1988

- South Dakota and Colorado are working out details on an agreement calling for South Dakota to support Colorado's bid for a $4.4 billion federal Superconducting Super Collider project, officials for the two state's said Tuesday.
- Boat docks, pheasant habitat and nesting boxes are examples of a new state program that mixes local and state resources to speed up completion of outdoor projects, a state official said. The Conservation Partners program, coordinated through the Department of Game, Fish & Parks, is geared toward smaller projects that have local support.
