strong in the first set, committing just two attack errors and benefiting from nine Lancer errors.

And then through two sets, the Red Raiders had a .362 attack percentage and the Lancers were at negative-.016.

Mount Marty showed some spurts in set three, jumping in front 4-0 and at one point getting to within 12-18. And yet, Northwestern had an answer.

"We had some big plays, some good movement, but when you're playing the number one team in the conference, they can handle it," Climer said.

Senior Laura Groseth and sophomore Sierra Kloth both added three kills for MMC, while sophomore Amber Dysthe had eight set assists. Junior BreAnne Thege led the defense with nine digs.

Northwestern got 10 kills on 17 swings, as well as two ace serves, from Karlie Schut, this week's GPAC Player of the Week.

"The potential is there, but we just have to put it together," Kuchta said.

Mount Marty returns to action Friday in York, Nebraska, to face York College at 7:30 p.m. The Lancers then head to Concordia for a GPAC match on Saturday.

points, led by Cailey Roth's third-place clocking of 16:20.

The champion Raiders are again among the Class B state title contenders. Gayville-Volin has finished second to Ipswich the previous two years.

"We're focusing a lot more on our goals," Nelson said. "Last year we enjoyed the ride, but now we're stepping it up a notch with our goals."

Part of the ride this season, for three of Gayville-

Wednesday at least, includes juggling two sports.

Genny Clark, Megan Hirsch and Ashley Emmick — who all finished in the top 14 in Freeman — are also on the Raiders' unbeaten volleyball team.

The team had a match Tuesday night, then the runners had their meet Wednesday afternoon, before racing back for volleyball practice later in the day.

"I'm used to it by now, but it seems like it gets harder as I get older," Clark said. "I never want to miss any meets."
