yards against Drake.

• Saeger has thrown only one interception on 71 throws through three games, with three touchdowns (two on Saturday).

• Paul Anderson has emerged as a legitimate special teams weapon. He nearly broke a punt return for a touchdown at UC Davis, and nearly did so again twice on Saturday.

• A switch to a four-man front on defense has already produced tangible proof of improvement. The Coyotes have recorded six sacks through three games (they had 8 all of last year) and have intercepted five passes (6 all of last year).

Now the Coyotes have to continue that momentum into the games that matter most, as Glenn said Saturday. That effort will begin in two weeks when Youngstown State and coach Bo Pelini come to Vermillion for the league opener.

"We have to get into our conference and make big plays," Glenn said, "and that'll be our next test."

Donovan Out For Season

A persistent hip issue will cost junior wide receiver Riley Donovan the rest of the season, Glenn said Saturday.

Donovan will have surgery on both hips to alleviate an issue he was born with that can cause bone-on-bone problems.

Donovan, who has one catch for five yards this season, will use his redshirt year this season.

"Then he can play football with not much pain," Glenn said.
