NMM Continues Fall Film Season With 'Shine'

VERMILLION — "Geoffrey Rush's Oscar-winning portrayal of pianist David Helfgott in the movie "Shine" is genius, but whether David Helfgott's piano playing, in reality, was genius or possibly our fascina-tion with mental illness, is a question that has been asked. In any case, "Shine" is a brilliant film, and you shouldn't miss the chance to see it on the big screen," says Patricia Bornhofen, National Music Museum spokesperson.

That opportunity will be this Saturday morning, Sept. 26, at 10 a.m., at the Coyote Twin Theater, in downtown Vermillion, as the Museum continues its 2015 film series.

Each NMM movie is opened with a very brief introduction by a National Music Museum speaker. Susanne Skyrm, USD Professor of Music/Keyboards, will introduce "Shine."

The National Music Museum created the film series as a way to make contact with a more diverse audience and to show again how deeply and inextricably music is woven into our lives. People are then encouraged to go and explore the instruments that make that music, at the National Music

"In the case of 'Shine," which centers on the piano, you can visit the NMM's fascinating collection of keyboards - from the earliest playable harpsichord, our circa-1530 'Neapolitan,' to the earliest known French grand piano and so much more," says Bornhofen.

The NMM is showing its movies at the Coyote Twin Theatre. Partnering with the new Vermillion Theaters group, proceeds from NMMmovie admissions benefit the Museum. Next month, Saturday, Oct. 24, at 10 a.m., the NMM is showing the recently debuted documentary "Some Kind of Spark," a powerful film-festival winner about what happens when music education meets music-hungry, under-served kids. The final NMM fall movie, on Saturday, Nov. 21, at 10 a.m., will be the sunny 1999 documentary "Buena Vista Social Club" about a legendary ensemble of aging musicians united to record their classic Cuban rhythms again.
