

PRESS & DAKOTAN ■ WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 2015

findings to the Press & Da*kotan* immediately after the derailment.

The BNSF train consisted of two locomotives, 96 tank cars loaded with ethanol and two buffer cars, Williams said. "The track speed was 10 miles per hour (mph), and the train was traveling 10 mph," he said.

In addition, the NTSB released the finding that the derailment consisted of seven cars, of which three breached and released its contents.

However, the NTSB didn't indicate whether the train derailed because of the collapsed bridge or whether the bridge collapsed because of the train derailment – or a combination of both.

Those findings will likely come later in the investigation.

As of now, Williams has no further information to release. "I do not have an update at this time," he said.

The derailment prompted former state legislator Frank Kloucek of Scotland to call for improvements on BNSF lines in South Dakota, including rail crossings. Kloucek noted the importance of rail service to the state, particularly agriculture.

The BNSF incident and disruption raised questions of what area farmers can expect for rail service during harvest season should such accidents occur.

The rail company remains committed to keep traffic flowing as smoothly as possible. McBeth said at the time of the accident.

"When an incident like this happens, we can reroute traffic with relative ease, which is what has been occurring for shipments originally scheduled through this corridor," she said.

"Customers may experience delays of 24-48 hours on shipments through the corridor."

at this in the future with some concessions," he said. "The 'sunset clause' is one that I've heard of a lot from the people and that's something we'll definitely have to consider. The 45 cents versus 90 cents (per thousand) is another thing we'll have to consider."

understand schools and understand how schools work, said DLR Group principal architect Curtis Johnson. "We think that experience and expertise could bring some important assets to your planning process. Koch Hazard Architects can offer an experienced perspective on the Crane Youngworth and Williams Field projects. It has worked with previous sports facility improvements in Huron, Pierre and Sioux Falls. "I have admired what your district has done over the years," said Koch Hazard Architects CEO and director of design Jeff Hazard. "Our goal would be to develop a long-term relationship so we can continue what you do.' TSP firm has an experienced 20-year teacher on staff as an architect who does research on teacher instructional programs and how they correlate with building structure and adaptability. "We want to help you discover your future," said TSP Inc. principal architect Michael Jamison. "We want to challenge you as well as challenge us for a better solution in the long-run for your district.' Overall, there will still be many meetings and planning aspects of the process before the facility study results can be analyzed and the school board can make improvement decisions for the district.

"We want to take a really good look at everything and do our due diligence in this process to present something that is palatable for our community and that we meet the needs of our kids now and down the road," Kindle said.
